

You are invited to attend

Design Speaks: Artichoke Night School

Session 19

Stay a while: The value of hotel design

With an increasing emphasis on architecture and design, today's hotels aim to be a home away from home for guests. In this highly respected speaker program presented by Artichoke magazine, we explore the importance of holistic design in hotels – from the bedside lamps to the hotel bar.

TIMO BURES is general manager of the recently opened and much anticipated The Old Clare Hotel, designed by Tonkin Zulaikha Greer. He has been integral in the conceptualisation and creation of the project from the ground up. Previously, Timo was general manager of Hotel Hotel in Canberra.

JULIETTE ARENT and SARAH-JANE PYKE are principals of Arent&Pyke, an interior design practice that creates responsive and emotionally layered spaces. Their first commercial project, Alex Hotel in Perth, is driven by the concept of "hotel as home."

HARLAN REDGEN, together with Philip Mathieson, established architecture and interior design studio Redgen Mathieson in 2010. In addition to residential work across Sydney, Harlan has led hotel projects including Hotel Realm and Burbury Hotel in Canberra, and the soon to be opened Little National Hotel, a new concept that brings the idea of affordable luxury to the hotel market.

WHEN

Wednesday 30 September
6.30–8.30 pm

WHERE

Space Furniture
84 O'Riordan Street
Alexandria, Sydney

COST $25 (includes light refreshments)

Secure your seats early as tickets are limited

Book now

Image: Alex Hotel in Perth, with interiors
by Arent&Pyke.
Photography: Anson Smart

ARTICHOKE
Organiser

SPACE Supporter

A DIA endorsed CPD
event for DIA members